

Dropbox FCPA Certification

Posted: March 12, 2019

This Dropbox FCPA Certification ("Certification") is incorporated into the Dropbox Reseller Agreement entered into by Dropbox and Reseller. Any capitalized terms not defined in this Certification will have the meanings set forth in the Dropbox Reseller Agreement. Please review the statements below regarding Reseller carefully. By registering for the Dropbox Reseller Program you hereby certify, on behalf of Reseller, the following:

1. Reseller did not come to Dropbox's attention by (e.g. recommended by) a government official or any individual or entity associated with a government official.
2. Reseller is experienced and qualified in its business and professional relationships that relate to Reseller's ability to assist Dropbox.
3. Reseller is not part of a government nor is any portion of Reseller owned or controlled by a government or any individual government officials.
4. Neither Reseller nor any of Reseller's subsidiaries, affiliates, or any officer, director, or owner of one of Reseller's affiliates or subsidiaries:
 - a. Has been a defendant in any civil litigation, arbitrations, or criminal proceedings in the last five years related to anti-corruption, anti-bribery, money laundering, embezzlement, fraud or other similar business crimes.
 - b. Has been the subject of a criminal investigation (formally or informally), accused, charged, or prosecuted related to anti-corruption, anti-bribery, money laundering, embezzlement, fraud or other similar business crimes.

While working with or on behalf of Dropbox, Reseller will be expected to comply with the U.S. Foreign Corrupt Practices Act of 1977, as amended, U.K. Bribery Act of 2010, and similarly applicable anti-corruption and anti-bribery laws (together "Anti-Corruption Laws"). Reseller certifies that it will be able to satisfactorily perform its responsibilities under its agreement with Dropbox, and at all times act in a manner that is consistent with Anti-Corruption Laws.
